

This photo was taken during my stay at Penn Rehabilitation Hospital in September 2024. A few of us became known as the "80s club" because our blood pressure frequently dropped into the 80s. During this time, I found strength in my physical therapists and family, who encouraged me to keep fighting.

This photo was taken after one of my final physical therapy sessions, when I unexpectedly met Joe Biden. I shared my goal of becoming an attorney and advocating for individuals with disabilities. It remains one of the most meaningful moments of my recovery journey.
